CRS Certificate Retrieval System

“Now there’s a better way to store and retrieve your weighing equipment data and calibration documents.”

CRS enables you to store and retrieve all of your scale calibration documents electronically by replacing the labor intensive, paper-based system widely used today. Your local scale dealer provides you with instant access to your scale information through their web site using CRS, the unique new web-based Certificate Retrieval System.

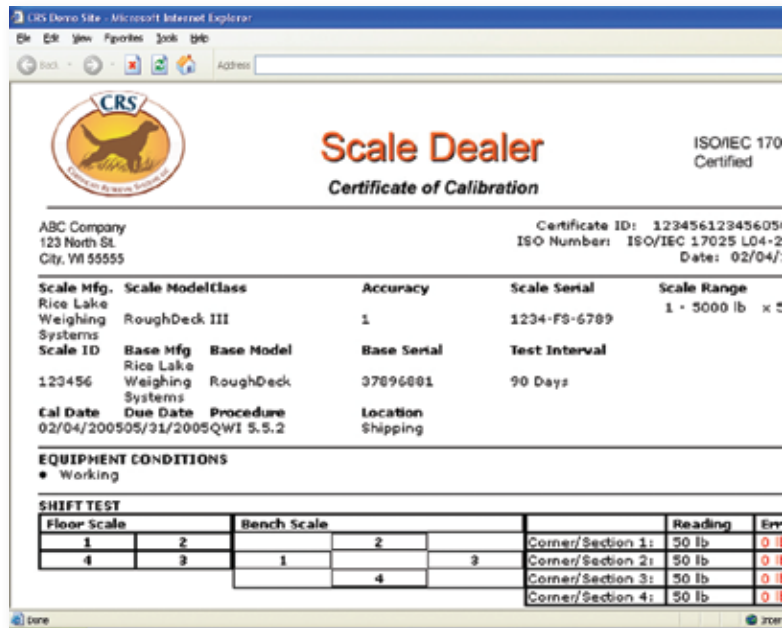

When your scale dealer includes CRS as part of your service agreement, you have instant access to an electronic inventory of your weighing equipment as well as the calibration records associated with each scale and balance at your facility. CRS gives you the ability to retrieve the certificates you need, when you need them.

For those companies that are ISO-certified, CRS greatly improves conformance to ISO guidelines. Having control of your own calibration data ensures your ISO audits proceed smoothly, giving you a greater return on your ISO investment.

Features/Advantages

- Access to calibration certificates online via a password-protected and secure web site
- All scale documentation is secure. Redundant servers maintain data in a state-of-the-art hosting environment
- Eliminates the need to manually create, file, store, retrieve and print scale calibration certificates. Overall efficiency and productivity of your entire business operation is improved
- Simplifies and streamlines scale maintenance data, allowing you to focus on more important issues
- CRS covers all brands of heavy capacity scales, industrial scales and balances
- Reduces ISO audit expenses

With CRS, you have immediate access to calibration certificates from a secure web site. This electronic data retrieval system eliminates the time and cost associated with managing a paper-based system.

Contact your independent scale dealer for a demonstration or for more information about this unique service.
